

If 80% of Wisconsin residents choose not to have unsolicited phone calls from for-profit agencies, it is time the federal government stands up for the people. The people who have not elected to be on the no-call list are the people who may be interested in the offers the for-profit agencies may provide. I am against reducing the laws that protect the people's wishes to not have these type of phone calls.